Special to the Washington Herald.

New York, Oct. 27.—With but one week of the campaign yet remaining the signs on the surface preponderate that New York will vote for Hughes. The betting favors round 3 to 1 on the insurance investigator. Sometimes it goes to 3 1/2 to 1, sometimes to 2 1/2 to 1, and when it comes to a standstill it is because there is no Hearst money in sight.

All polls and canvasses indicate that the voters from that section of the State north of the New York City line will give a large plurality for Hughes, and that New York City will not be much more strongly for him than for the Democratic ticket in 1906.

It is true, however, that these canvasses are all obtained by the Republican State committee or by newspapers that are supporting the Republican ticket. As for the Democracy and the Independence League they have no canvasses, they furnish no figures. They content themselves with saying that there is a tremendous undercurrent that will elect Hearst.

Connors Claims Twenty Counties.

Mr. Connors, chairman of the Democratic State committee, asserts that he knows that twenty counties are going for Hearst. It will be recalled that Hearst only carried one county in 1906. When asked to name the counties, Mr. Connors declines.

Hearst also has "rattled" his followers by setting up the cry that he will be elected if he is not cheated. Mr. Thmsen, the chairman of the Independence League, gravely announced in a carefully typewritten statement that Postmaster General Cortelyou was here collecting money with which to buy the election. At the time he made this statement Mr. Cortelyou was sitting in his room at the Manhattan Hotel, scarcely daring to communicate with the Republican managers for fear of ruffling their feelings.

Anxious About Hughes.

It is an interesting fact that nine out of every ten men you meet in the street will tell you that they believe that Hughes will be elected, but at the same time there is the greatest anxiety that he may not be. Hearst has done so many things in the way of exposing Wall street, and Wall street's highways and trusts, and has scored so great triumphs in the Federal and State courts that many persons are really wondering if he has not some great supernatural powers which will enable him to turn defeat into victory at the last minute. Many of his ardent supporters have given up the fight, and are hanging round right and left, and drawing large crowds at most of his meetings.

To-night Hearst is in what William J. Bryan in 1896 called the "cynical" country. He had engagements to speak in the Borough of King and Queens. He came to the task of keeping them from meetings at Albany, Troy, and Cohoes last night that were great gatherings, and made some of the younger reporters wear their papers in panic that Hearst was going to be elected.

King County is the bailiwick of P. H. McCarran, the Democratic boss, who refused to vote to make Hearst's nomination unanimous at Buffalo, and who later called together his county committee and denounced Hearst as a bolter for nominating an opposition judicial ticket.

Queens Not for Hearst.

Queens is the county which the anti-Hearst men give up as a lost cause at the primaries, only to see their delegates unsent at Buffalo under directions of Murphy in order to make a Hearst majority. Hearst met with a cool reception in both boroughs. His meetings were in marked contrast with those which greeted him on his first visit to Brooklyn, which was before McCarran declared war upon him.

Hearst's speeches to-night were intensely bitter. He has been growing in violence steadily for more than a week, and to-night he denounced everybody who is opposed to him, except the Washington administration. He attacked the appellate division of the Supreme Court for throwing out his local candidates in New York County because they were nominated by a corporation; he lambasted every editor in the city by name, and he trounced the "Hundred Day" to his heart's content. But he got little sympathy from his hearers.

On the other hand, Hughes, who was also in the "cynical" country, was getting promises of the warmest support in the counties of the southern tier. These counties traversed by Hughes to-day are in the Senate and Congressional district of Gov. Hughes, whose friends sought to prevent Hughes' nomination. To-day they turned out thousands of Republicans to meet and hear Hughes, and to-night he was the guest of the governor at Olean, and had a large meeting.

Doubt as to Tammany.
The sharp heart of speculation is being induced in here as to the kind of support Tammany will give Hearst. Of course, Tammany ardently desires the election of the local ticket. But Mr. Hearst has personally had his doubts as to whether the machine vote would go for him. The town has been full of stories that every Tammany man would scold his name and vote for Hughes.

Hearst has questioned Tammany leaders about it, saying that he feared the merciless cartooning that Murphy has been the victim of might turn him against the Democratic State ticket. These cartoons have sought to accentuate the fact that Hearst, before the last election and during his contest, in both his newspaper, repeatedly cartooned Murphy as a thief and thug, in prison stripes.

Hundreds of different cartoons picture Murphy as Hearst depicted him.

HURRIES TO DYING FIANCE.

Niece of Late Gen. Early Called to Norwell, Mass., on Sad Mission.

Norwell, Mass., Oct. 27.—Lucetta M. Early, fifty-nine years of age, niece of the famous Confederate general, Jubal Early, is speeding from Lebanon, Pa., to Norwell today, as fast as the swiftest train can carry her, to reach the bedside of Benjamin W. Prouty, seventy-eight years old, to whom she is engaged to wed, and who is seriously ill.

Mr. Prouty is a veteran of the civil war. After years of single life, he had a desire to have a home of his own, and last winter, while reading a Western paper saw the advertisement of a correspondent, the famous Confederate general, Jubal Early, and she came to Norwell. The engagement promptly followed.

Miss Early had gone home to settle her affairs before returning to Norwell to be married, when her fiancé became dangerously ill, and she was notified.

DEAD NUMBER FIFTEEN.

Four More Bodies Taken Out of Kansas City Fire Ruins Yesterday.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 27.—One dead from injuries and ten bodies taken from the ruins, making a total of eleven, are the known fatalities resulting from the fire that destroyed the Chamber of Commerce building in this city.

Four persons are still missing. The body of another unknown victim is in the morgue awaiting identification. It is practically known that the other four are dead. This will bring the total known loss of life in the fire to fifteen.

Four bodies, believed to be those of Mrs. Mary E. Brigham, her two children, and George Mullins, were taken from the ruins to-day. John Peake, a brother of Mrs. Edward Winslow, to-day expressed a doubt as to whether the four bodies recovered yesterday are those of the Winslow family.

EXPECT BATTLE WITH UTES

One Thousand Soldiers Are Now
Approaching the Indians.

Unless Redskins Surrender Attack on Them Is Probable—Cavalry and Infantry to Participate.

Sheridan, Wyo., Oct. 27.—A battle between the rebellious Ute Indians and 1,200 United States soldiers armed with rifles and machine guns will probably be fought within twenty-four hours. On the government side cavalry and infantry will participate.

After distributing 1,200 rounds of ammunition among his troops of the Tenth Cavalry, Maj. Geisler and his men left Gillette, Wyo., by rail for Arapahoe, fifty miles from the present location of the Utes. Reaching Arapahoe, he will make a rapid dash across the desert, down the Little Powder River to join Col. Rogers in a combined attack upon the Utes.

Col. Rogers, in command of the Sixth Cavalry, from Fort Meade, has not been heard from since he left the post, but it is expected that the two commands will reach the Indians about the same time. In the event of the Utes' refusal to return to their Utah reservation, there will follow a battle between the two commands.

The Utes are now moving and are headed northwest, toward the Northern Cheyennes, whose reservation lies about fifty miles east of Fort Custer, Mont. It is said their purpose is to induce the Northern Cheyennes to join them in a raid.

CYCLONE WRECKS COLLIERY.

Heavy Property Loss in Upper Wyoming Valley—No Lives Lost.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 27.—A cyclone which struck the upper end of the Wyoming valley this evening totally destroyed the breaker of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company's colliery at the Stevens, Pa., plant, and also damaged the breaker of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, while a number of houses in and near the plant were blown away.

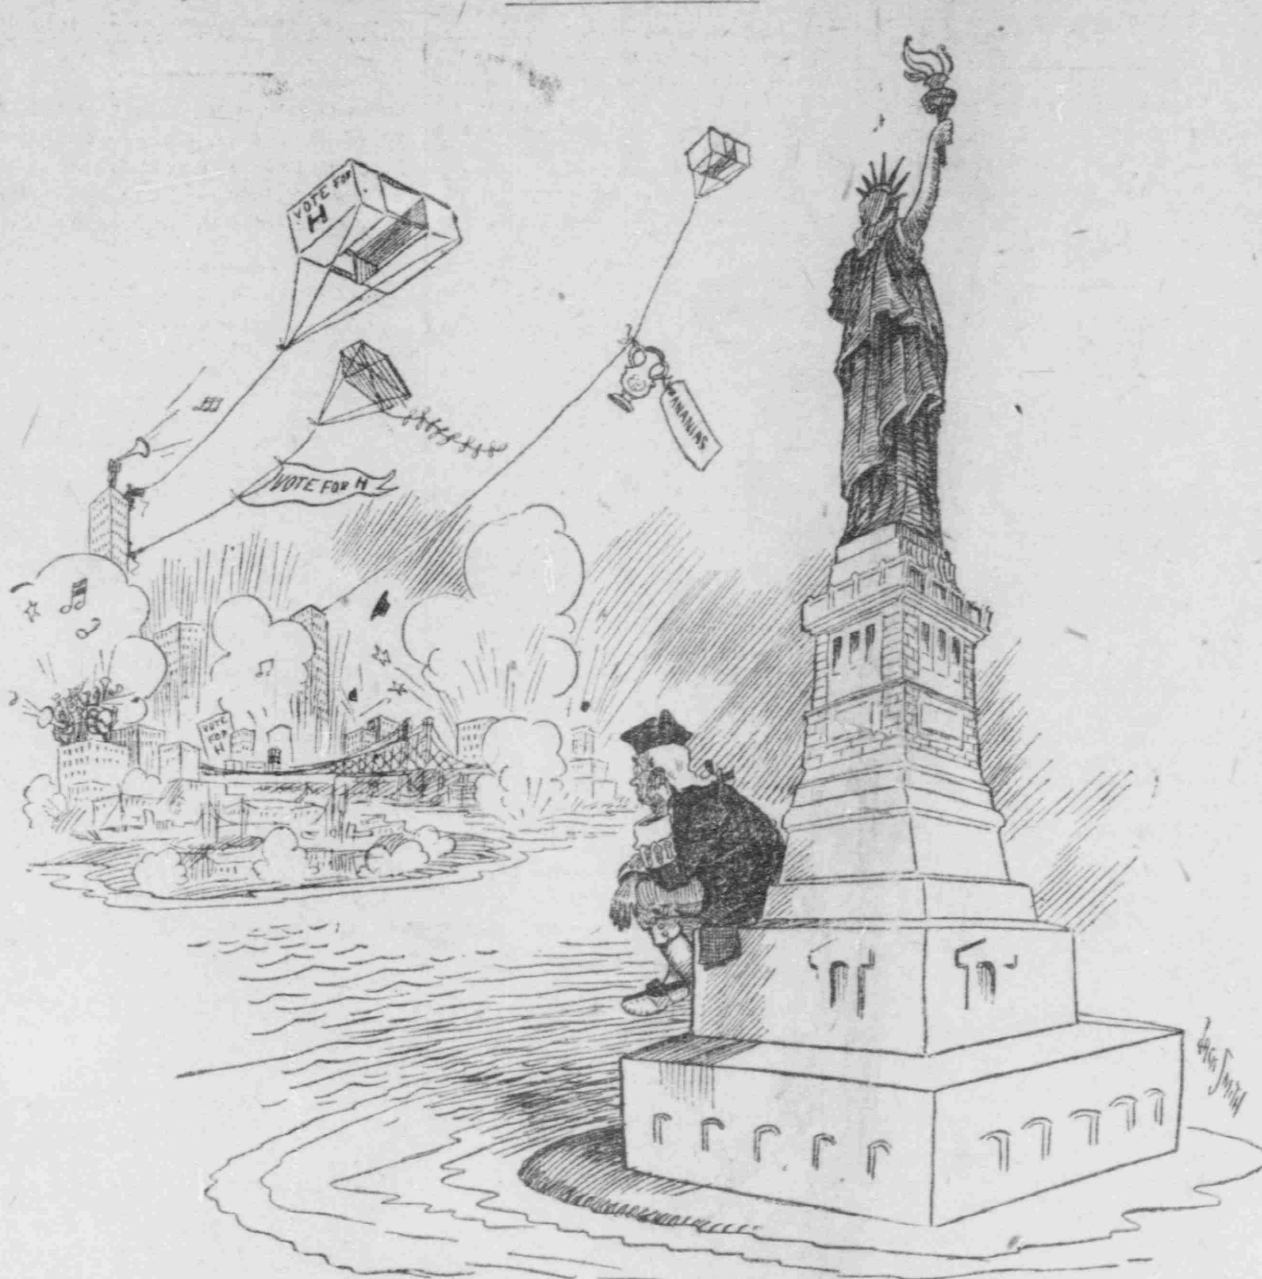

After the breaker boys and other employees quit work, and there was only one man in the breaker, Joseph Steadman, an offer. He was not injured, but he was killed by a falling log. The log was thrown out of work for several weeks.

Thomas Jones and Samuel Fryer were killed by falling timbers and were taken to the hospital.

FATHER KNICKERBOCKER: "ONLY TEN MORE DAYS OF THIS!"

KILLED IN HIS AUTO

Robert M. Snyder, Indicted
Banker, Victim of Accident.

HEAD STRIKES TROLLEY POLE

Boy Is Run Down and Dies a Few Hours Later—Kansas City Capitalist,
Tried on Bribery Charge in St. Louis, Had the Case Voted Prossed, and Was Re-indicted.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 27.—Robert M. Snyder, banker and capitalist, was killed almost instantly about 5:30 o'clock this evening in an automobile accident at Independence and Park avenues, and Arthur Rodell, the thirteen-year-old son of Robert F. Rodell, 2900 Maple avenue, died a few hours later at the Agnew Hospital, where he was removed after the accident occurred.

Mr. Snyder, with his chauffeur, Frank M. Schroeder, was driving along Independence avenue, when the boy, who was pulling a coasting wagon, stepped in front of the machine and was run down, the automobile dragging him several feet and then running over his body.

The chauffeur swerved the machine toward the curb when he saw the boy, and in doing so the right front wheel struck violently against the curbstone and glanced off, grazing it for a distance of several feet.

Mr. Snyder, who occupied the rear seat, was partly thrown from the car by the impact, and it is believed his head struck an iron trolley pole. He did not fall from the automobile.

Convicted of Bribery.

Robert Snyder was convicted in the St. Louis Circuit Court in October, 1904, of bribery in connection with the passage of the Central Trust bill in 1888 for merging several of the street car lines here.

Among his attorneys were William Warner, now United States Senator; H. S. Priest, formerly judge of the United States District Court here, and F. W. Lehmann, of this city. The circuit attorney who prosecuted him was Joseph W. Pratt, now governor of Missouri.

The defense presented no evidence to refute the charge of bribery, but rested its case on evidence to the effect that Snyder had continued his residence in Kansas City, Mo., and not removed to New York, where he had rooms at the Waldorf-Astoria, thereby being exempt from prosecution under the statute of limitations, three years having elapsed between the alleged bribery and the bringing of the indictment.

Evidence was offered by the State to show that Snyder had changed his residence to New York City, and the jury taking that view, found him guilty and gave him five years in the penitentiary.

Case Is Remanded.

The Supreme Court overruled this decision, and remanded the case on the ground that the change of residence had not been proven, and that the circuit attorney, in his closing argument, had indirectly commented on the fact that the defendant had not taken the witness stand, such comments being prohibited by statute.

The case was to have been retried the 18th of last month, but Circuit Attorney Sager could not get his principal witness, one of whom had removed to Colorado, here, and as the court refused to grant a further continuance, the case was nolle prossed. A few days later a new indictment was found, which is still held.

In the first trial the State presented testimony that Snyder gave Fred G. Uthoff, of the St. Louis city council, $50,000 for voting that view, found him guilty and gave him five years in the penitentiary.

The killing of R. M. Snyder is the second violent death to occur in the Snyder family within the past few months. A few weeks ago the body of Carey Snyder, an only son, was found near Hillsboro, Ore. It is supposed that he met death at the hands of bank robbers, and that he was killed because of his knowledge of the operations of the bandits.

BOY KILLED AT AUTO RACE.

Tire Explodes and Machine Swerves
Into Fence Hitting Lad.

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 27.—Robert Berger, a youth of eighteen years, was almost instantly killed to-day during the race meet of the Bethlehem Automobile Association on the half-mile track of the Pennsylvania State Fair. Young Berger was sitting on the race track fence when the front tire of W. S. Leavitt's racer exploded, causing the car to swerve to the right and crash into the fence at the point where Berger sat.

OPPOSE WINE IN CHURCH.

W. C. T. U. Discusses Alcohol in Religion and in Medicine.

Harford, Conn., Oct. 27.—At to-day's session of the National W. C. T. U. organizers from several States made brief addresses, and a paper on "Informed Wine at Sacrament" was read by Mrs. H. E. Hollingshead, of Ohio.

Mrs. Hollingshead concluded by saying that the union must continue to try to reach the large class that used alcoholic wine in God's house, until the Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran, and German churches have been reached.

At the afternoon session Mrs. Martha A. Allen, of New York, gave an address on medical temperance, in which she claimed that many people die of alcoholic disease from the steady every-day use of small doses of liquor taken as medicine. These cases are not rare, the speaker said. She contended that alcoholic liquors are never necessary, and are often dangerous in the treatment of disease.

The delegates were entertained at a reception in the capitol to-night by Gov. Roberts and State officials. A loving cup, which passed through the San Francisco earthquake and fire, was presented to Mrs. Stevens, the president, by the San Francisco delegates.

SAYS HIS SPELLING IS BAD

Jacob Riis Comments on Letter Received from Roosevelt.

Occasion Is Opening of New Roosevelt Gymnasium for Children of New York's East Side.

New York, Oct. 27.—President Roosevelt sent a letter in reformed spelling and Mrs. Roosevelt sent flowers to the opening of the new Roosevelt Gymnasium in connection with the Jacob A. Riis Neighborhood Settlement this afternoon. The flowers, a large bowl of pink and white roses from the White House grounds, were placed on the speaker's platform.

President Roosevelt's letter read:

"My Dear Riis:
May I thru you send a very warm welcome to the children of the East Side. I wish I could be with you at the opening of the gymnasium in the Henry Street Settlement. As I cannot, may I thru you extend my heartfelt good wishes to the boys and girls of the settlement. That they may thoroughly enjoy themselves while young and grow into useful men, and women and true American citizens is the earnest wish of your friend,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The gymnasium is built in the rear of the settlement house at 85 to 95 Henry street. A tablet bears a bas-relief of President Roosevelt, and this inscription: "BETTER FAITHFUL THAN FAMOUS."

"This gymnasium was built by friends of Theodore Roosevelt, citizen of New York and President of the United States, and given to the children of the Jacob Riis Neighborhood, on his forty-eighth birthday, October 27, 1906."

Mr. Riis, in his short address, told something of the work of the settlement and concluded:

"I wrote the President that I thought his letter was fine and his spelling very good. I think Mr. Riis agrees with the President in everything except spelling. Mr. Riis does not believe in spelling badly any more than in doing anything else badly."

CUBA FACES DEFICIT

Only Greatest Economy Will Prevent Bankruptcy.

REVOLUTION COST $5,300,000

Expenses Over Receipts at End of Fiscal Year May Exceed Four Millions—Wandering Band of Negroes Threaten Trouble Near Cienfuegos—Armed Men Concentrating.

Havana, Oct. 27.—Only immediate and extensive retrenchment can save Cuba from bankruptcy at the expiration of her fiscal year on June 30 next.

This is the gist of the report made by Maj. Ladd, who has been investigating the finances of the former republic.

The estimated cost of the recent revolution, according to Maj. Ladd's figures, is $5,300,000. Of this $2,500,000 has actually been paid, leaving an estimated balance to be met of $2,800,000.

The estimate of budget expenses for the remaining nine months of the fiscal year is $17,500,000. In addition there are special appropriations of $7,700,000. The cost of increasing the rural guards from 4,000 to 5,000 men is estimated at $1,000,000.

The military occupation of Cuba is also figured at costing $500,000, and at least another million will be required to meet claims arising as a result of the recent fighting.

Faces $4,000,000 Deficit.

With other obligations, a total of $31,000,000 will be required unless unusual economies are practiced to carry the government through the year.

On October 1 the cash balance in the treasury was $10,829,156. The estimated revenues for the remaining nine months are $19,000,000, a total of $29,829,156 of assets. This would leave a deficit of $12,170,844 in round figures. To avoid this deficit, Maj. Ladd recommends the strictest economy. Special appropriations should be curtailed, and only absolutely necessary projects should be carried out.

If his recommendations for economizing are carried out, Maj. Ladd believes confidence can be restored to Cuba, and her credit made good abroad.

Trouble Near Cienfuegos.

The American military commander at Cienfuegos reports that there are many rumors there to the effect that serious trouble between the political parties is coming. A band of former insurgent negroes of bad reputation passed through Soledad, toward Canao, to-day. A slight disturbance took place. Some alarm is reported from Palma, owing to reports that armed blacks are concentrating there. The local authorities declare all is quiet.

Gen. Bell, Maj. Slocum, and Alejandro Rodriguez, commander of the rural guards, started to-night for Sagua, for the purpose of inspecting the conditions of military quarters throughout the country. It is their intention to make a stop at Mantanzas.

Order for Cuban Business.

The President issued an order yesterday afternoon directing that all business in the United States with the temporary administration of Cuba should be transacted through the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department.

The Banco de la Habana and the National Bank of Cuba have been made United States public depositories in Cuba by the Treasury Department. This action was taken to facilitate the payment in Cuba of expenses due to the presence of a military force on the island.

OPERATION ON HOAR.

Congressman Bears Up Well and the Physicians Are Encouraged.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 27.—Dr. Baker issued a bulletin to-day from the bedside of Congressman Rockwood Hoar, who contained the first news that he had undergone an operation yesterday by Dr. Harvey Cushing, the specialist. The bulletin read:

"After several consultations it was decided to operate upon Mr. Hoar to relieve the intense pain. Yesterday an operation was performed by Dr. Harvey Cushing, of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, of Baltimore. Mr. Hoar stood the operation remarkably well, and this evidence of his vitality was very reassuring. He passed a comfortable night, and has rested quietly all day."

DENIES SON SHOT DEER

Roosevelt Replies to Letter Accusing Theodore, Jr., of Killing Game.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., killed three deer while hunting bear in Colorado, is flatly denied by President Roosevelt in a letter directed to State Game Warden and Fish Commissioner J. M. Woodward.

While the President's son was hunting in Colorado, recently, a newspaper story was published to the effect that he was killed three deer. It was on account of this story that Commissioner Woodward wrote to the President, asking the facts.

Mr. Woodward received a letter yesterday to report to him. "Bill," who was the President's old guide and ranch superintendent, is now collector of customs in Arizook County, and he has built new camps at the lake.

Some time ago he invited the President to come to Maine on a hunting trip, but he replied that he is too busy to accept.

The Swallow camps are situated on a "horseback" on the shore of Mattawamkeag River, 9 miles from Island Falls, and are reached after a drive of 2 miles, a 5-mile canoe trip down the Mattawamkeag River, and a 2-mile trip in a launch over the lake.

Seawall is now sixty-three years old, strait as an arrow, strong and alert as a man of forty. One afternoon recently he paddled a canoe 5 miles without fatigue, and when it came to shooting his eye is as sharp and his hand as steady as of old.

NOVELIST MAKES TROUBLE.

Politicians Claim Character Picture
Is Untrue to Life.

Plymouth, N. H., Oct. 27.—Col. Thomas P. Cheney, of Ashland, who in the "afterword" of Winston Churchill's novel, "Coniston," is credited with furnishing the author with some of the anecdotes related of the chief character, Jethro Bass, has given to the press a statement in which he accuses Mr. Churchill of drawing a defamatory and unjust picture of Ruel Durkee, who is the original of Bass.

"I never," said Col. Cheney, "gave so much as one word which in the slightest degree could be construed as reflecting upon the good name of or fair fame of that wise and true and grand old man. I protest that Mr. Durkee was not a notorious political boss."

Ex-United States Senator Henry W. Blair also writes a letter confirming Col. Cheney's views. He says:

"Don't let anyone get the impression that the Jethro Bass of 'Coniston' is the Ruel Durkee of Fryeburg. They are as wide apart as the poles of the earth."

POWER PLANT BURNS.

Six-story Building Destroyed at Loss of Half Million Dollars.

New York, Oct. 26.—The mammoth six-story plant of the New York Steam Heating Company, occupying almost the entire block bounded by Greenwich, Deerpark, and Washington streets, was destroyed by fire that started shortly before midnight last night, and in consequence many downtown establishments which secured their power from the plant will be shut for several days. The damage by the fire will amount to half a million dollars, as much valuable machinery was ruined.

The fire was marked by somewhat sensational scenes by the police who discovered the blaze. Two families, Henry Waggoner and his wife and five children and Christopher Williams and his wife and three children, reside in a tenement adjoining the plant on the north, were rescued by two policemen. Waggoner is paralyzed and had to be carried to the street by the police.

CASSATT TO RETAIN POST

Fricks Denies He Will Succeed Pennsylvania President.

Leave of Absence To Be Granted to Magnate, but He Will Open Tunnel and New York Station.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—Henry C. Frick, whose name has been so prominently mentioned as the successor to President A. J. Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has passed the word that he will not have the position under any circumstances, and it has been said that James McCrea, now first vice president of the Pennsylvania system, will be president of the Pennsylvania lines on the retirement of President Cassatt.

The retirement of Cassatt as nominal head of the Pennsylvania system, as announced for one year at least, according to further information leaking out in Pittsburg, although Mr. Cassatt is to be granted an indefinite leave of absence very shortly and he will go into the South for his health, severing all connection with active duty. Samuel Ray, of Philadelphia, now third vice president of the Pennsylvania system, is the man in charge of the work of the North River tunnel and the new Pennsylvania Terminal in New York, will assume the duties of president of the big system while Mr. Cassatt remains as the nominal head of the line for the time.

It has been the special request of Mr. Cassatt that he remain at the head of the road until the North River tunnel and the New York station be opened. He has said that with these two railroad feats accomplished, he would consider his life work as a railroad man well rounded out, and he will personally conduct the celebration which will be held at the completion of this work. Then he will announce his retirement and his successor will be announced. That his successor will be McCrea is announced on good authority here. Mr. McCrea, besides being a most wonderful railroad man, is a great favorite with Mr. Frick, who is the greatest individual stockholder in the Pennsylvania road, and he is also very close to Mr. Cassatt. Less than a year ago Mr. McCrea had an opportunity to assume the presidency of one of the big Western trunk lines, but refused to leave the Pennsylvania.
